

Lives of the Azar

By Idrízink Erebzídy

Translated by Ben Lambell

Preface by the Translator

The present work is the first translation of Lives of the Azar, the work of poet Idrizink Erebzidy. It was presented to Queen Maki Denkage, who was then only 13 years old, in 1262. It commemorates the founding of The State of Aitsasho by Maki's grandmother, Stiak Denkage, 100 years earlier.

A devout Gekist, Idrizink strongly believed in the equality of all people, and his work reflects this. In Lives, he has gathered historical records from across the continent of Azar, concerning monarchs as well as simple farmers and criminals.

Work on Lives would have started during the reign of Monarch Edra Denkage, who died from an illness the year before it was published. Ey would have been Idrizink's original patron, although Lives' dedication was rewritten to address eir daughter Maki.

No other works by Idrizink have been found, although it is known that he emigrated to Kenkase 1263, where he lived for the rest of his life. His decision to leave the service of The State of Aitsasho proved fortunate when King Astilseth Lorobse invaded in 1275, ending the Denkage Dynasty.

Dedication

I humbly present this book to Your Majesty, Queen Maki Denkage, Lady of Aitsasho, Lady of Kenkase, and Lady of Obdab, in this first year of Your reign, in this winter, in the one hundredth year since Your grandmother, Queen Stiak Denkage, created the blessed State of Aitsasho.

It was Your great-grandmother, Lady Zoushou Denkage, who rose up against the tyrant Gazash in 964, bringing freedom to the people of Aitsasho.

It was Your grandmother, Queen Stiak Denkage, who freed also the people of Kenkase and Obdab, uniting them under Her benevolent reign for sixty years.

It was Your parent, the blessed Monarch Edra Denkage, who has witnessed the birth of our glorious state, and defeated the aggressions of Duldald, and ruled with great wisdom the people of Aitsasho.

Now begins Your reign. Now is a time for wisdom and prosperity, a time fertile with hope, and the beginning of a joyful age in the land blessed by those gentle monarchs who have come before.

Your servant,

Idrizink Erebizidy
